WOMAN TO CONFRONT FRANK MAN OF MYSTERY

NEAR MUTINY IN FEDERAL PRISON

Striking Bag Mill
Workers Prevented
From Riot by Police

A telephone call from the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills to the police station this morning sent Police Captain Max and ten other police men galloping to the factory just before 9 o'clock, to take a hand, if necessary, to prevent further strikes of 5 or 6,000 in the weaving rooms. The strikers, it was reported, were incensed by the discharge of one of their leaders Saturday, and were demanding his release when the police were clustering in groups within the building and declined to leave until the force came up.

"The strike is not serious," said Oscar E. Egan, vice president. "The men we discharged insulted the assistant superintendent of his department, and we, of course, let him go at once. The men took to it actively, and we thought best to have some police force at hand. We do not expect any more trouble."

Deering, Plow King,
Seeks Health in Dixie

(CHICAGO, Oct. 20)—William Deering, a pioneer in the manufacture of farm implements, for his health is going to the country. George Deering, his son, James and Charles Deering, Dr. W. B. Phillips and a nurse.

As the charges filed by the American church workers here were shouts of "Hurrah for Hawthorne" and "Hurrah for Morton." The outbreak was so alarming that at once the guard was doubled. Guards at the jail, the gauntlet prisoners attended Sunday school.

Yesterday, much to the surprise of the church workers, there was a single guard attended. It evident had been arranged that a boy was to be put on the church workers because of their resolutions upholding Wards and the demands to release the prisoners.

The charges filed by the American church workers here were shouts of "Hurrah for Hawthorne" and "Hurrah for Morton." The outbreak was so alarming that at once the guard was doubled. Guards at the jail, the gauntlet prisoners attended Sunday school.

The Prefers Death
To Being "Ugly"

(KANSAS CITY, Oct. 20)—The secret of Gertrude Munroe's life was that she was not pretty. At least, she believed she was not. The woman made her home in a rooming house at 28th and Harrison to the General Hospital. Still she worried about it.

One day she told attendants, "The first chance I get I'm going to commit suicide. Life isn't worth living when you're ugly."

Says Slit Skirt Lures
Men From Church

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—The latest fashions in women's dress are responsible for the absence of men from church services, according to Dr. George Miller, who denounced the latest modes as "ridiculous."

He said many men leave church to wear slit skirts, and no moral woman will wear one."

REAL SNOW
STORM HITS
ATLANTA

Earliest on Record Here—Closets Yield Up Wraps and Orders Deluge Coal Dealers.

Fair Dixie took a leaf from the Book of Arctic Records this morning, and that part of Dixie lying in and around Atlanta was coldly caught by a snowstorm that, for sheer and chilly earnest, compares favorably with any similar event lingering in the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

It was a real snow storm. It began at 6 a. m. and continued without interruption for fifteen minutes. From a mere flurry, swirling and eddying on the surface, it shot wind, and the small flakes in this season of the year, in masses of snow, until tracks were beginning to appear on the pavements. And the biting power of the snow.

But the snow and the exposed portions of the bosom of Mother Earth were as yet unchilled after the blinding glow of summer, and the snowdrifts were as yet unbroken.

Almost as soon as the blizzard settled the skimpy white coverlet gave place to this blanket of slush, very unromantic.

Then the sun came out, and by 7:30 the streets were beginning to dry.

The early snow appeared to be whirling up from the southeast. A few miles north of Atlanta there was a heavy rain, a few gusty sprinkles of rain taking its place.

The brisk shift in the weather conditions was followed immediately with an odd series of events with the snowdrifts up and down the banks were paraded in the early morning light, with their accustomed complement of red noses and frostbitten fingers.

Coal in Coal Orders.

It wasn't so cold, at that—just 37 degrees at 7:30 o'clock. But on the face of it, the Indian summer of the coal strike was still in full swing.

Wilbur's breakfast was attuned to the more or less musical tinkle of the furnace shaker, or the resounding blow of the coal shovel, or the rattling of a dry snowbox in the woodshed.

A rush of orders for coal was reported by the dealers, but so far the waiters to the public has not been heard among the land.

It wasn't cold enough for that.

The Weather Office suggests it is just as well not to get unduly excited, as there is still some fine weather ahead.

At the same time, the advice is offered that the coal bin should not be allowed to go empty longer, and that pet plants should be blanched or taken indoors after they have been taken.

Family and Prosecution Discredit His Story

MILITANT IS ADMITTED TO U.S.

Commissioner of Immigration Re-vokes Order Barring Mrs.
Pankhurst From Country.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Federal Commissioner of Immigration Antonio Caminetti today revoked the order of the special board of inquiry decreeing Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the famous British suffragette, and her son, Peter, should be allowed to enter the country.

Commissioner Caminetti said that Mrs. Pankhurst should be admitted on her own recognizances on these grounds.

1. Because of doubt on the question of moral turpitude.

2. Because she can be prosecuted in the United States courts if she violates the laws.

Caminetti's decision came at the close of a conference held between such officials to-day to determine what action should be taken to allow Mrs. Pankhurst to enter the United States or whether she should be denied entry.

NEAR MUTINY IN FEDERAL PRISON

Convicts Cheer Hawthorne and Hiss Moyer's Supporters.
Guard Is Doubled.

A telephone call from the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills to the police this morning sent Police Captain Bill and ten police officers to the factory just before 9 o'clock, to take a hand, if necessary, in trouble following a strike of 200 men in the environment.

The strikers, who were incensed by the discharge of one of their number Saturday, and were demanding his reinstatement. They had a meeting in the company houses within the building and declined to leave until the police came up.

"The trouble was not serious," said Captain Bill. "Mrs. Elias, vice president, had called me and informed the assistant superintendent of his department, and we, of course, let him in at once. He was very calm and his activity, and we thought, he had some police force at hand. We do not expect any more trouble."

Officials of the Federal Prison were disturbed over the possibility of a spirit of discontent among the 1,200 inmates following an open outbreak of mutiny Sunday when the name of James Hawthorne was cheered and Sunday school workers who had upheld Wardens Moyer were hissed.

Guards at the penitentiary have been ordered to keep a stricter watch than usual.

The dissatisfaction amounted to a virtual mutiny. It first manifested itself during the church service Sunday morning, when the prisoners appeared to pay little attention to the exhorters. Ordinarily after the chapel service four or five hundred prisoners attend Sunday school.

Yesterday much to the surprise of the church workers on hand, not a single convict attended. It evidently had been arranged that the guard was to stand on the church workers' side, and the guard was hissed because of their resolutions upholding Wardens Moyer and denouncing as false the charges made by Julian Hawthorne.

As the prisoners fled by the amazement church workers there were shouts of "Hawthorne for Hawthorne" and "Hiss Moyer for Moyer." The outbreak was so alarming that at mess the guard was doubled. A number of the women church workers were in tears.

Atlanta tipped over its early snow record this morning just before 7 o'clock, when a whirling fury of flakes swooped down from the pale, cloudless sky, which cleared almost at once, while the snow, after falling quite briskly for a quarter of an hour, disappeared from the air and ground.

The only other snow that has fallen in Atlanta as early as October in the last 10 years was that of Oct. 20, 1903. That was this morning's break that record by nearly a week. The two early snows were about the same in texture and quantity of snow.

Then the sun came out, and by 7:30 o'clock the streets were beginning to dry.

The early snow appeared to be whirled up from the southeast. A few miles north of Atlanta there was no snow, a few gusty sprinkles of rain.

When the sun rose in the weather conditions was favored perceptibly with an odor of mothballs. Overcoats with wrinkles up and down the back were on, and the men in the city had with them accustomed complement of cold noses and foggy spectacles.

Overcast on Parade.

It was a cold, drizzling day just as degrees at 7:30 o'clock. But on the heels of a royal Indian summer the cold struck home, and many Atlantaans were in for a shock. The more or less musical tinkles of the furnace shaker or the resounding boms of an ax making kindling of a good fire were woodless.

A ring of orders from the gas company to the dealers, but so far the plumber has not been paid for the plumbers had not been paid ahead in the land.

It was cold enough for that.

Courts Adourn Because Of Chilly Quarters.

The first wintry blast of the season put an end to all Fulton County court sessions Monday morning. Judge R. C. Davis, of the City Court, adjourned all cases soon after coming at 8:30 o'clock.

County police remained on the job, though they had to leave their work as did the Sheriff's force. Solicitor General Hugh Dorsey's assistants in the Thruway building, the office of the private office in the Kiner building.

A report at the courthouse Monday afternoon was that the heat would be turned on soon.

LEXINGTON, KY., Oct. 20.—No snow has fallen in Kentucky to-day, but sleet mated, reliving the worst drought ever known in the State. Many were actually without water for days, and in particular, in the larger towns of central Kentucky. The damage to crops by the drought is incalculable.

Officials at the Federal Prison were disturbed Monday by the menacing spirit of discontent among the 1,500 inmates following an open outbreak of defiance Sunday when the name of Julian Hawthorne was cheered at Sunday school workers who had helped. Workmen were well paid.

Guards at the penitentiary have been ordered to keep a stricter watch than ever as a result of the trouble.

The trouble began at the actual meeting. It first manifested itself during the chapel services Sunday morning when the prisoners appeared to pay little attention to the exhorters. Ordinarily after the chapel service the inmates would be allowed to sit in their cells. This time they did not. They were told to sit in their cells.

Profit for Georgia.

Reports of a killing frost over the state caused a sensational rise in cotton prices Monday. Indication of the amount of damage in the state was exaggerated, and because of constantly swelling estimates of the losses, the market became nervous.
The fact that the good weather enabled the farmers to gather in and market the crop. The flood of cotton on the market was such that buyers could digest immediately.

Everyone looked for a frost of average date to stay the market. The yield of the crop was expected to be the yield of short hundreds of thousands of bales from what was expected.

It was this news which gave the nervous market a jolt, and the raid, sending quotations skyward.

Conservative experts have said 51-point losses were very low estimates. An advance of 41 points means a gain of $2.50 per bale, from recent levels, or $22.50 per bale for the state.

The market was shortened

somewhat by the early frost, but it will not be as heavy as some of the other states.

The new Commissioner of Agriculture has maintained all along that Georgia had almost no frost of a severe enough.

Sues for Divorce,
Charging Husband
Took Girl to Movie

Charging that her husband "fisted with a girl and took her to the picture show," a woman in Atlanta has filed a suit for divorce and permanent alimony against Adolph L. Wal-
Company. The Walkers live at 79
Westland street.

The woman, Mrs. Anna K. Walker, declares also that her husband craves to excess and carried away with him.

"I am a summer," she says in the petition. "He flirted with a girl who was engaged across the street from the theater. He also took this girl to the movies pictures and left the place without his wife."

Mr. Walker's name for the custody of the girl was not mentioned.

WIFE DECLARER FISHER A RAVING DRUNKARD AND RIDICULES ENTIRE STORY

Lyne, and Miss Lillian Endicott, a young woman who was holding when we met.

"We couldn't go all over the fort, but I didn't think my husband seemed at all nervous or acted unusual. He did read a lot about the case. I noticed that. And some time ago he missed out of diary that I kept to set the alarm clock. I don't know if I don't know that he took it, however."

Detectors, who had traced Fisher from Birmingham, from where he was brought to Atlanta by C. W. Burke, an agent for Attorney Rosser, were unable to find any record of his release in the event that any new record was made by Frank's lawyers or there appeared an endeavor to hide him away.

The vigilance of an entire day and a night resulted in only the sensationalized account of the quasi-prisoners and their visitors, very little to the Sunday American.

This statement was given out late in the afternoon of October 20, when the prominent man charged he said that his identity must remain a mystery for a time at least. The only clew he gave was that the man was fairly prominent.

Man's Name Withheld.

I do not want to use the name of the man, but I will. Fisher, he once lived here and left here about the time of the murder of Mary Phagan, and since then has lived in North Carolina. Tennessee, Georgia, and the man who was the man was fairly prominent.

The man who was the man who committed the crime on Saturday, April 26, and that this man told him he was going to the home of Mary Phagan in the early morning at noon. Fisher said that when the man came from the factory he said: "I rated h-1 in there and you have got to get out of town."

Since that time Fisher says that this man, who is well to do and established in business here, has been leaving his expenses, wherever he goes.

Whether Fisher's story is true or false we do not know, but we are not giving it out as fact, but merely as one of the number of stories which have come to our ears during the investigation of the crime. We would have said nothing about it if the newspaper had not asked us to do so.

After telling Fisher's walking into the office of the Chief of Police in Birmingham, we do not take any stock in it one way or another as yet.

But we are going to investigate it thoroughly and find out whether or not it is true.

Fisher Told Name.

We have told the detective something which we have not told the public. We have told them the name of the man Fisher accuses, and have invited them to come in and help in the investigation. There is still a man as the one Fisher names, and he is well known. Fisher is a married man and has several children. They are in Atlanta.

all impressed by Fisher's story. Most of them held it as a lie, but he and his wife, Mrs. Hooper, whom he was asked his opinion.

Chief Landford laughed at the story, and said it was his belief that Fisher and his wife had been the principal in the Phagan murder. Fisher is the same man, he thinks, that testified some time ago against Grady Gray, and then disappeared from town after Freeman was bound over. Fisher was not hard to testify in the trial.

Fisher acted as a sleuth and obtained much of the evidence that resulted in the prosecution of Freeman. He was the only man in the class in the event that any new record was made by Frank's lawyers or there appeared an endeavor to hide him away.

Bank With $2,500,000 Deposits Is Closed

LOWELL, MASS., Oct. 26.—The Traders National Bank was closed today by the Acting Comptroller of the Currency.

The bank had a paid-up capital of $200,000. Its deposits are estimated at more than $2,500,000. It was established in 1882.

The Traders National was recently mentioned in connection with the closing of the Atlantic Bank at Providence, R. I., and the Traders National is a reflection of the Providence failure.

The board of directors hope all depositors will be paid in full, but are not yet in a position to make any definite statement that such will be the fact. They, however, say there is no reason to fear for much alarm at the stage.

Burke nearly lost his man after he got him out of the plaza. Witness and Burke were on the side of the station house, and Burke, spying a taxicab, headed that way, expecting his man to follow. Witness, however, had a leading to call him to a stop, and the cab stopped, aided by a reporter, who with the kindly instincts of one who is always willing to relieve the sufferings

CURRENCY BILL TO PASS, SAYS HOKE SMITH

Georgia Senator Comes Home for Week's Rest, and Tells of His Legislative Activity.

Senator Hoke Smith, taking advantage of a temporary lull in the session, has returned to his home, No. 137 West Peachtree street, where he will remain until the end of the number of the measures which have been before Congress this session, and which have not yet been awaiting the opportunity for a few days in which he might get away from the Capitol.

Senator Smith refused to make any comment on the currency bill, which has been stirred up by the amazing charges of Senator La Follette and Dr. W. A. Dornan in respect to conditions in the Atlanta Federal Prison.

Replies to the currency measure, for which he has been very active.

Senator Smith said: "I am not going to pass the currency bill before any other important matter is brought up for consideration. There are men on the floor now who are prepared to stop any other bill, and other men are prepared, just as I am the other day, to stop any bill. I hope that no other measure come up on January 7.

"The bill now is in committee and, so far as I know, will be voted on November 10 and 20. I hope it will be passed then."

"All of the fight on the broad principles of the bill is over, and the only question now is concerned with the necessity of the government having more power to regulate the issue and contraction of the national currency. And they are agreed in a general way as to the broad principles, and the only question now is the small understanding of the government shall be made."

"The only difference of opinion is on some of the minor details, such as whether it is better to add another member to the board or not, and so on.

"It is bound to be rather quiet in the Senate for a few days, but I will take this opportunity to come home and get a good rest. I am not going to go to the Senate for a few days, but the train back to the Capitol. My wife and I are going to have a quiet time, except that I am going to take it easy for a while."

Kentucky Man to Govern Porto Rico

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The President to-day sent to the Senate the following nomination: "I nominate W. C. Clegg, of Kentucky, to be Governor of Porto Rico. Ellis C. Clegg is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and is a member of the Board of Internal Revenue, Department of Justice.

SAFETY-COMEDY.—COLUMBUS, N. Y., Oct. 18.—A Kentucky man who blew two safes in a local grocery store and got nothing away from them, was given a note reading: "This is a cheap joint."

The women of every nation must work out their own salvation," was the reply. "No one has offered me a safe, but I have a safe at home if they did. I can't tell them what to do. There has been so much talk about safety, and so little action."

The special board that decided against Clegg included Senator St. Gaudens, Senator Smith, Elyea and Schell.

The militant leader was the only one to oppose Clegg, and he was unimpressed in England on the charge of being a communist.

Mrs. Pankhurst, the English woman who has made official England's first woman in history, greeted the inspection committee with a smile.

"Good morning," said Inspector Williams, who was first to approach Mrs. Pankhurst.

"Good morning," was the smiling reply.

Williams at once got down to business. He asked her if she had been in prison.

"I was released because of my sympathy, and received it, from the English militantes when I was in prison."

NEW MONEY ACT WILL HELP US, SAYS BANKER

Greatest Financier in West Praises Currency Bill and Denounces Present Bank Law.

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES
WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The most striking comment yet made to me on the currency bill comes from one of the greatest, and not the greatest, men of the West. John T. M. Johnston, president of the National Reserve Bank of Kansas City, called one and one-half hours and an office meeting and relation exercises an influence on half a hundred banks in the Southwest, including the First National Bank of Muskogee, Oklahoma.

The resolution of the Bankers' convention at Boston, calling for the currency bill as "Scientific and reasonable" should not be taken too seriously. I believe the fundamental principles of the bill are acceptable to the majority of the bankers of the United States. The American realists realize that the commerce of our country to-day is handicapped. It is straining and straining law and custom to make it work.

Present Law Obsolete.

I think that the present banking law, built up as it has been, is too rigid and is now obsolete.

It was enacted for the purpose of raising seven hundred million dollars to meet a war debt expense.

The emergency, not the increasing demands of an unrivaled commercial, agricultural, industrial American supremacy.

I do not know a single banker who does not acknowledge that the basic feature is imperative at this time, because of abnormal world-wide financial disorders, that every move we make is met and solved by the bill.

The measure mobilizes our country's reserves, which are scattered in the form of out-of-pocket reserves, but unutilizable. It unites the vast resources of the nation and the South, and it automatically moves our currency automatically to expand during crop-moving periods or tight times, and contract when the bill is not in effect.

The entire South and West are preparing themselves for us to encourage initiation of a funding bill. The State Treasury, some time ago, to assist in moving the crops but in doing so had to break its year's precedent, which our countrymen oppose.

Mr. Vanderlip, president of the largest bank in America and recognized as a great man, and perhaps the most prominent banker, the sentiment of practically every American banker, when on last Friday he said before the Current Events.

"The main financial things to be accomplished are mobilization of reserves and elasticity of currency, and the bill makes an important start toward that end."

I also believe that a majority of American bankers prefer decentralizing the power. That is why they insist that the Federal banks prefer to a central bank. The spirit of this republic has always stood against the creation of an autocratic and oligarchical government, whether ruled by Czar, Emperor or King, have ever stood for centralized political, monetary and financial power.

Imperial's Idleness To Cost $1,500 a Day

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.
HAMILTON, Oct. 28.—The Hamilton-American Bank, which has a history of service, said that the holdup of the Imperial have proved unsatisfactory and that complete resounding is necessary to the safety of the bank, its customers and to increase the speed of the vessels.

The bankers, in their contract, were requested to compensate the company for the compulsory retirement of the vessel.

The American Bank and Trust Co. will have to pay $1,500 a day for every day the ship is laid up.

Harvard Lad 'Beating Way to Europe' Loses

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 28.—Charles Morris, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a Harvard lad, was somewhere at sea with Europe as his home, and he was at his chief destination, Germany, starved.

On a bet of $10 with college mates, Morris had agreed to go to Europe without a penny. It is the Harvard lad on the Laramie, which left Boston Tuesday, who is competing in the race.

He is racing in the wager he must not return until after the Christmas holidays.

'SEVEN SISTERS' TRUST BILLS FOR U. S.

Financiers Learn With Alarm of New Legislative Program Planned by Wilson.

By B. C. FORBES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—President Wilson is planning to have the famous "Seven Sisters" anti-trust bills of New Jersey adopted by the Federal Government, financiers have learned with alarm.

Knowledge of this sensational step, I am told, has made financial sources and economists here responsible for much of the nervousness displayed during recent weeks by capital-owners of stocks have crumbled greatly.

The question was once asked Mr. Wilson, "What do you think of New Jersey, whether he favored such legislation for the whole country, but he mused a moment and said, "This is the sort of legislation that I like to see in force in the State of New Jersey."

Since then his attitude toward corporations has undergone no modification, so far as I can learn.

The announcement made here exclusively, that Congress is to be asked to adopt the "Seven Sisters" will raise alarm among financiers and corporations throughout the whole country.

One of the best known men in America, a man intimately associated with finance and Washington, said to me last evening:

"President Wilson's attitude toward the corporations of the country is most disquieting.

"He is determined to force through his pet 'Seven Sisters' legislation, a fact."

"Then legislation based on the Pinto report is also to be taken up by the administration.

"The Department of Justice has a long list of corporations on its books.

"Several measures calculated to test business on territories are anticipated.

"It looks as if we were to have three years of turmoil."

—Seven Sisters Bill.

1. Hold directors and corporation officers individually responsible for all infractions of law.

2. Forbid absolutely the formation of 3. Prohibit the issuance of "watered" stock; stipulate that no stock shall be issued for profit, not even on a par value, based on the liquidation of another corporation such stock shall not be issued in amount greater than the sum of the net cash or its equivalent.

4. Practically forbids agreements to fix prices.

5. Prohibits illegal selling of goods at different prices in different parts of the country to injure competitors.

6. Condemns all restraining of trade.

STILL MORE DRASTIC IDEAS.

7. Forbid the purchase of stock of one corporation by another unless the former company is engaged in the same line of business.

8. Prohibits the formation of cartels.

9. Aim at extorting monopolies.

10. Provide jail sentences for offenders.

11. Clothe the authorities with power to forfeit the charter of any offending corporation.

12. Give stockholders the right to re-open "dorm" long after the transaction has been carried through.

Passage of the bill will mean the end of New Jersey corporations to take over charters in other States.

The "Seven Sisters" bills were not retroactive and therefore did not interfere with existing holding companies.

Sues Wife as She Sues Him 13th Time

PIUTTGATE, Oct. 28.—In the divorce court here Charles Wagner explained that he had sued his wife, Wimberly, for a divorce, but she had refused to put an end to her sullying pretensions.

Wagner averred that his wife had been a "tremendous" influence since their marriage in 1916.

She was contesting the proceedings, demanding a separation, and had eight times since that could remember, and that there was provocation for each suit.

Wilson Challenges Fitzgerald at Golf

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—President Wilson and Mr. Marshall had a friendly game of golf. The President was transferred from Lancaster Park to the country club of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church, committed suicide by hanging himself.

What She Needed

The boy was placed before her she en- chanted.

"Oh, really, I must be mad. I want nothing to do with you."

On hearing this the boy rushed out of the shop and, seeing a policeman approaching, ran away to him, shouting,

"Come over here. There's a woman in our shop who has mad. She wants me

TO DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

This reminded Philip that there was still a good deal of shopping to be done. He was about to have his coat made when he saw the same man in the shop, and, as before, he said,

"Another person has arrived for messenger. Will you be pleased to unlock it?"

"No," said Philip. "It must remain unopened."

He sat at the thought of the season. As his tattered coat and worn boots would make in that place. Yet, just two weeks ago, he passed through the street outside, bound in the pitiless rain for Johnson's Mews, and had on his coat.

More Shopping.

Walked into Regent street and made a number of purchases, not for- gotten his coat.

After this he had a small photograph taken, which caused a stir.

It would hold the two best pic- tures he possessed of his father and mother, and the picture of his son, and he could store his valuable, both jewelry and clothing, in the safe of a jeweler of the good Samaritan.

There was some excuse for this, but Philip had no money to pay for the admission of none. He hastened to Farring- ton road, kept an eye arranged with a jeweler, and when he had seen what had happened to him?

"It's all right," he said. "I only heard this morning that he was let out."

"Would you mind telling me who he was?" asked Philip.

"Well, as a matter of fact, it was overpaid," was the reply. "You see, he was a man who had been in prison for a month. I don't say I am present with a witness, but he was let out."

Philip had time to collect his scattered coins during this long speech.

"I am very sorry for you," he said.

"What's the name of the treat?"

"Well, I never set eyes on him," he managed to answer, as the boy was about to leave.

What She Needed

At a shop there employed a small boy to run errands. The other day, while he was waiting in the shop, a lady came in and asked the assistant for a yard of silk.

When it was placed before her she said:

"On, really, I must be mad. I want muslin."

In hearing this the boy ran out of the shop and, seeing a policeman across the way, ran up to him, shouting: "Come over here. There's a woman in your shop gone mad. She wants muslin."

"My husband at last got me a bottle of Cardus, the woman's tonic, and it helped me so he got another bottle. When I took the second bottle it was well."

"I wish that every woman suffering from womanly trouble would give Cardus a trial. It is the most wonderful tonic for women's weakness."

Cardus is a tonic trying to bring from the experience of a man and other women the best in health. In this remedy, it should surely do you good.

Philip, the greengrocer, had the warden add direction—opposite."

He dismissed the cabs and went to the hotel, where he was to meet his friend.

In front of the hotel he saw a small restaurant called the "Star." Its titular embellishments were the stars.

Its exterior was a gift of the stars.

He entered. A woman was knitting at a cash desk.

"Good morning," he said, "you sent me regularly to a boy named Anton, who was confined in the prison—"

"Yes," interrupted the lady.

"Would you mind telling me who paid the bill? I suppose it was paid overhand."

"The bill was the receipt," she said.

"Then the pore lad was remanded for a week."

"I'm sorry, but I was pleased to knit for him."

"No," said Philip. "It must remain untouched."

THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN

Published by THE GEORGIAN COMPANY
Entered as second-class matter at postoffice at Atlanta, Georgia, on March 3, 1873.

"Yes, I Guess It Killed Him,"
Said the Lady, and It Did

When the Fast Train "Touches" a Man, That Is the End. The Moral Is: Men in the Mass Stark Responsibility.

The train was rushing to Chicago, a solid mass of steel, flying like a steel arrow with its living cargo from one great center to another. It "touched a man" standing by the track.

A thin trail of smoke drifted behind, losing itself in the many colored leaves of the trees along the river bank. It was a beautiful day, the dull grayish-blue clouds reflected in the water, as the late afternoon sun finished a day's work.

And it was a beautiful world, to the man whose life went out as suddenly as the light of a candle, as the big train came around the curve.

Such a little incident in life and in railroading does not cause much delay. The emergency brakes were set, but there was no shock—no passengers, except a few on the rear observation platform, knew that anything had happened.

One young man, on the right-hand side of that platform, as you look toward the engine, turned white, for he had seen it as it lay in the trench between the track and the hill, when the train flew past.

He and half a dozen others, the youngest men on the train, ran back with the railroad man, who was sent formally to do what is customary.

About three minutes, as fast as they could run, and out of breath, they and the railroad man returned, and with them a brakeman, who had carried a red flag, to prevent a rear-end collision.

They came running, hurrying, climbing to the observation platform, and the train was off—she soon made up the three or four minutes lost. She had done exactly the same thing two weeks before.

The pale young man who had seen it soon recovered his nerve, and no one was excited except the very small boy who had rapidly exhausted all of the comic newspaper in the observation car, and was much in need of fresh excitement. He could find no one to pay attention to him, except a lady who evidently does a good deal of traveling on this train.

She said to the little boy: "Yes, I guess he is dead all right. I never knew this train to touch a man and not kill him. You see, it goes pretty fast."

Some one had said that the train had not run over the man, but had "just touched him," and the little boy thought that perhaps he was not dead.

But he was dead, as dead as any little ant that you have crushed, walking along the garden path. It was not the railroad's fault, not the engineer's fault; he had blown his whistle; and the section hand—the dead man was a "section hand"—knew the whistle meant death if he stayed too near the track. Custom makes us scorn danger.

This "hand" had not thought it worth while to cross all the tracks and clear the flying "Century." He put his back against the steep bank, leaving room, as he thought. But air suction, caused by the flying train, or his own recklessness, brought him too near. Employees are supposed to pretend ignorance of all accidents. But one employee told the short story to this writer, whom he knew: "The steam cylinder head just touched him and it took his head clean off, as though it had been cut with a knife."

Here, if you choose, you have a chance to moralize on life, its significance, and on man, the little leaf growing on a tree we call the human race, falling and vanishing like any other leaf. It is not the man, but the race that counts.

It is the race that built the great train, the intelligence of the race that has just united the Atlantic Ocean and the Pacific Ocean.

It is the race, the millions working together, that gradually make the life of the man worth while, the importance of the individual greater.

The race is the real SUPERMAN, the real power. And each individual "section hand" forgotten the hour that he dies, or "great man," forgotten when the newspapers stop talking about him, must find his comfort in the fact that he belongs TO THE RACE, shares in its accomplishment, helps in its work, and will probably return to this planet over and over millions of times, as long as the planet lives, move on to work in other bigger and better planet when this one dies—and so on forever.

P—S. For the serious mind. Note that the flying train types modern industry and civilization. No one on the train was excited—a majority did not know that anything had happened. Promptly on the hour each ate his dinner and all slept well. The train had killed a man. BUT IT WAS NOBODY'S BUSINESS.

It was not the engineer's fault; he had done his duty.

It was not the passengers' fault; they did not run the train.

It was nobody's FAULT, but the man WAS DEAD.

If any INDIVIDUAL PASSENGER had killed the man that passenger would have refused to leave the body, would have inquired for the wife and children, would have felt remorse, lost appetite, blamed himself, even had the dead man been really to blame.

But as the passengers, the train, the engineer and the railroad ALL COMBINED killed him, NO ONE felt responsible.

So it is in industry and civilization.

Ten men are killed in a day in some mine. No one responsible. Stockholders, managers, engineers all say, "I did not do it"—again, NO ONE TO BLAME.

A miserable woman starves to death in her garret in a big city. Civilization says, "I did not do it." No one to blame, and so it goes.

We shiver with horror when we read of an individual body-owned slave beaten to death.

We shiver our shouders and say, "I did not do it," when we read of ten thousand wage-owned slaves, miserably paid girls driven to death by poverty.

Since we have evaded moral responsibility we must advise COLLECTIVE RESPONSIBILITY so that when men die in their youth and women starve it shall not be possible for the entire race and its government to say, "I did not do it."

The Home Trainer.

When a man buys some gymnastic apparatus and takes a little daily exercise he glows with virtuous pride. But a woman, whose "home trainer" is

When Our State Department Officials "Shudder"

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES.

A MERICAN ships carry only 10 per cent of the foreign commerce of the United States. Foreign vessels carry 90 per cent and earn $200,000,000 a year in doing it. Do the officials of the Department of State of the United States "shudder" at this? NOT AT ALL.

But a newspaper, under a Washington state line, says "the arrangement of our foreign relations of the United States is a step which fairly MAKES STATE DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS SHUDDER."

Surely the State Department of the United States became an adjunct of foreign governments, always around to a high state of nervousness, when it was necessary to "shudder."

But a newspaper, under a Washington state line, says "the arrangement of our foreign relations of the United States is a step which fairly MAKES STATE DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS SHUDDER."

Now wonder United States Ambassador Page, at London, believes and says that "the United States is yet to be led and fitted to the world." What can he be expected to say, taking his instructions from the American Department of State?

With the American battleship fleet went around the world, accompanied by FOREIGN COLONIES that control the ENTERTAINMENTS—THE HOSPITAL SHIPS—their fuel supply—probably not one of our present State Department officials experienced a SHUDDER.

When the American army of occupation went to and came back from Japan, but got NO FRIENDS in the United States IN FOREIGN VESSELS, this humiliating fact is not known to have caused any "shudder" among officials of our State Department.
